Home is Where the Heart Is...

A Note from Faye Washington....

The YWCA Greater Los Angeles is in the process of constructing the new Job Corps Urban Campus to serve as the home for 400 Job Corps students: providing housing, medical services and vocational training in over 30 disciplines, with up to two years of training, that will nurture these students into self sufficient, employable citizens.

Thanks to our collective efforts, the cost for the building and the construction are completely paid for. However, the costs for the "soft items" are still needed to make this brand new, state-of-the-art campus a "home" for the students...items such as: towels, sheets, electronics, toiletries, televisions, production equipment, video screens for the amphitheatre and much more.

We invite you to browse through our catalogue of needs to find the perfect gifts to donate in the name of your friends and family and partner with us in making a house a home for the students we serve.

Your financial support is sending arrows of hope and stability into our future for the next generation. Helping the YWCA GLA to see these students through will be some of the best money you've ever invested.

In Appreciation,

Faye Washington

Faye Washington
CEO, YWCA Greater Los Angeles
